One Hundred Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the Subscriber, on Tuesday the second of this inst. April, living in Kent county, Maryland, near Chester Town, the following described Negroes, viz. William, about 5 feet 5 or 6 inches high, a yellowish complexioned fellow, about thirty years of age, formerly the property of doctor William Matthews, he has been very much given to running away, and has been so often described in the public papers within this twelve months that any further description of him seems needless.—Jacob, about 6 feet high, and about 32 years of age, of a common Negroe complection, down look, his little finger of his left hand stands straight, occasioned by the cut of a sickle. Patt, the wife of said Jacob, about 27 years of age, a small light made woman of a yellowish complection, with thick lips for an American of her stature, she is a very good needle woman, and spins on either small or great wheel, and is very handy in any common house work.—Two children of the said Jacob's and Patt's, the one a male child about four years old, the other a female child about two years old. The above described Negroes took with them, besides their own wearing apparel, three coats, two of which were linsey cloth of a light grey color, both new; one of the two was a great deal too large for either of the said fellows; the other coat of brown cloth, half worn; three under jackets, one a velvet, another a drab, the other a light colored linsey cloth do, one new pair of Calf skin shoes, lined with linnen and bound with leather, one pair of boots remarkably large in the legs, several pairs of stockings and a silver watch, all stolen: their own wearing apparel as follows—William had on a light-horse regimental coat worked with silver twist, (which coat he had when he was brought home to me the first of February last, a round sailor jacket (blue,) thickset breeches, patched with corduroy in the stride, with other necessary clothing. Jacob, two linsey cloth coatees, lead colored, one new the other half worn, blue linsey cloth jacket, half worn, two pairs of linsey cloth trowsers, of a lead colour, the one new the other half worn, tolerable good shoes and stockings. Patt has every day cloathing, and her children wore home-made linen and linsey, her other cloathing not so well known; it is uncertain which course they may take, as William is such an experienced coaster.

Any person or persons apprehending said negroes or sounding them, so that their master may get them again, shall be entitled to the above reward, or in proportion for either of them, that is to say, 40 dollars for each of the fellows, and twenty dollars for the wench and children, and if brought home, all reasonable charges paid by

The kitchen is 20 feet square, containing bake-ovens and other conveniences; a pump of excellent water at the door. A stone barn with good stabling; a carriage house and granary, and a large frame lately built for hay, &c.

A non-farm house, and wash house, with a brick milk house over a never failing spring of good water. Two large gardens in high order, and richly stored with a great variety of the best fruit; strawberry, and asparagus beds; shrubs, flowers, &c. An apple orchard in its prime, containing 600 trees. The situation is high, pleasant and healthy; a great number of handsome fruit and other trees in the court yard, round the house, &c. The soil is good and produces remarkably well, and there is now a considerable quantity under clover. About 10 acres of meadow, adjoining a stream called Mill-creek, which runs through the premises, and on which there is a good scite for water works. About 12 acres of very thriving young timber.

THE undersigned having examined Jacob Perkin's new invented method to detect counterfeit Bank paper, do approve of the plan, it being impossible to engrave or sink two plates perfectly alike, without the original die or hub, the counterfeiter would find it impossible to make an impression which would perfectly gage with the check from the original die.

The History of Pennsylvania,

By ROBERT PROUD,

In two octavo volumes,

A work entirely new, original, and highly interesting; embellished with a Portrait of the head of WILLIAM PENN, and a new Map of Pennsylvania, New-Jersey, Maryland, and the State of Delaware, and parts adjacent.

IN this publication are exhibited the remarkable rise, happy progress, and extraordinary prosperity of that province, till near the time of the declared independency of the United States of America; effected by such uncommon and pacific means such singular, just and prudent policy, as appear no where in the history of nations, to have so generally, and so extensively prevailed, in any other country, to an equal degree of advancement, importance, and felicity of the people, and so generally to have excited the admiration of all observers, as in the flourishing and happy state of the province of Pennsylvania:—proper to be known and remembered by all those, who wish to be informed in the extraordinary melioration of this country, and in the means of rendering the inhabitants so happy and prosperous in former time; as well as an egregious example for posterity and surrounding states to imitate and improve upon, &c.

CONTINUATION OF

Late Foreign Articles

Per the arrival of the A. E. C. at New York.

LONDON, February 16.

Last night were received by an express from Dover, regular sets of Paris Gazettes, from the 27th ult. to the 9th inst. with the exception of the dates of the 4th and 5th inst. They were brought in by a cartel from Calais.

Colonel Cunningham, of the guards, was the only passenger in the cartel.

While the court of Vienna has been continuing the idle farce of negociations at Rastadt, at the same time that it made appearances of preparations for war, the executive directory has obtained by an artful management and hypocrify, every thing it wanted. Having gained the necessary time required to assemble its new levies, to overthrow the monarchies of Piedmont and Naples, and to get possession of the fortress Ehrenbreitstein, which has been starved into a surrender, the directory now assumes a very menacing and peremptory tone towards the emperor. On the 1st inst. the French plenipotentiaries at Rastadt signified to count Lehrbach, his minister, in the quality of king of Hungary and Bohemia, that if within fifteen days his majesty did not make the Russian troops evacuate Austria, the directory would order its troops to recommence hostilities.

The fortress of Ehrenbreitstein has at length surrendered. Modern history scarcely furnishes an example of a blockade of such long duration, having lasted from April, 1797, to January, 1799.

This noble constancy of the garrison and its brave commander col. Faber, must render its services forever memorable.

By the reduction of this place, the French become masters of the two banks of the Rhine, from Scaffhausen to Dusseldorf.—The possession of Mayence, Ehrenbreitstein, and Dusseldorf, opens to them the provinces of Franconia, Hesse and Westphalia; and the king of Prussia is the sovereign most exposed to the danger of being in the hands of the enemy.

Every thing which was apprehended on the side of Naples is unfortunately verified.

On the 7th inst. the directory communicated to the councils the important news of the capture of Naples on the 24th January.

It appears certain that prince Frederick of Orange is dead of a malignant fever, which he caught in visiting the military hospitals.

He died on the 6th ult. and not on the 26th of December as former French papers reported.

At length the unfortunate king of Sardinia has been permitted to set out for Tuscany, whence he is to go to Cagliari, in the island of Sardinia. The French commissioner pushed his severity so far as not to allow his majesty to see the pope, but in his presence.

The republic of Lucca, supported for some time by the influence of the late king of Prussia's favourite, Lucchesini, has also been overthrown. Such is the general torpor of the continent of Europe, that the destruction of a state is now considered an event scarcely worth recording.

The whole continent of Africa, from Morocco to Egypt has at length taken up arms against the French, at the instance of the grand seignior.

The states of Barbary and the emperor of Morocco are not satisfied with fitting out corsairs, but have sent large bodies of troops to attack Buonaparte in Egypt, of whom the French papers scarcely speak. The two courts of the Porte and Russia continue their preparations of war with a bold perseverance which cannot be too much admired.

The sittings of the two councils offer nothing very interesting. The frequent debates on the finances, on the deficiency of the revenues, and on the necessary requisitions, engage principally their attention.

Nine Hamburgh mails still remain due.

Six Dublin mails arrived yesterday afternoon. Their contents are not of much importance.

In the county of Kildare some outrages have lately been committed by the peasantry, and the opposition to the union every day encreases.

The subject of the union, which it was supposed would have engaged the attention of the Irish parliament on its adjourned meeting of the 7th inst. in consequence of the resolutions moved in the British house of commons, has not yet been resumed. There was no house on the 7th. On the 8th its attention was occupied by the reading of several libellous paragraphs from The Sun newspapers of the 28th, 29th, and 30th ult. containing reflections on the Irish parliament.

Mr. O'Donnel moved that the papers of The Sun be burned by the hands of the common hangman, which sentence was ordered to be carried into execution as on Monday last.

The spirit of hostility to the union daily spreads and shews itself in greater force. On the 1st inst. the county of Cavan came to resolutions against it, of which the following are the principal:

Resolved unanimously, That no terms can be offered by Great-Britain sufficient to compensate to this kingdom for the loss of its legislature, and be they what they will, they must ever be precarious, as they will depend on the will of the British parliament.

Resolved unanimously, that there presentatives of the people were, upon their election, invested with a temporary power of acting for their constituents—and we shall consider it as a most flagrant breach of the sacred trust reposed in them, if by any act of theirs they should extinguish that power by which they were created.

February 20.

Yesterday two mails arrived from Dublin, those of the 15th or 16th inst. They bring us the proceedings of the Irish house of commons on Friday last on the motion of lord Corry for the house to resolve itself into a committee to consider of the state of the nation, a motion the issue of which we consider as materially interesting, as not only involving a re-discussion of the great question of the Union under another shape; but as evincing in the clearest manner that the more the question is considered in that country, the more will the arguments in its favor prevail over the heat and intemperance of its first introduction. Lord Corry's motion was rejected by a majority of 20, which prove that by that number the strength of the Union party had encreased.

On this occasion the anti-unionists expected to have mustered, according to all the accounts of their friends, a majority of at least thirty, instead of which they were left in a minority of twenty; the opponents of the motion, the object of which was to pledge the house against receiving the British propositions, being in number an hundred and twenty three: this may be considered as a complete triumph of the minister; such an one as must have been the more mortifying to the anti-unionists, as the gallery of the house was crowded with their friends, against whom Sir Henry Cavendish had moved the doors should be shut, but for whose indulgence even lord Castle strongly pleaded.

From the proceedings of Friday, it seems probable, that the measure of an union will be carried even through the commons of Ireland; we perceive also a growing manifestation of popular opinion very different from that which has lately appeared so prevalent. Thirty-six of the most respectable freeholders of the county of Antrim have signed an address to their representatives, expressing their desire that the question of an union should be fully and fairly discussed in parliament. Protests have also been signed against the hasty resolutions which have been passed on the subject in several other places.

The Dublin mails bring no news of consequence.

February 21.

There is an idea abroad that Mr. Pitt proposes to call in all the outstanding exchequer bills, in order the better to ascertain the amount of every man's property in government securities, preparatory to the operation of the income bill. It is said that Mr. Pitt will adopt some measure for paying them off, so as to leave no floating property in the market.

General Massena has sent engineers to Little Basle in Switzerland, for the purpose of fortifying that place, and the French troops have been considerably augmented in the canton of Uri, and towards the country of the Grisons.

The march of the Russian troops engages the attention of Europe, as the most certain sign of the prolongation or rupture of the armistice which has been improperly called the peace of Campo Formio, every information relative to that march necessarily becomes interesting. A letter from the banks of the Mein, dated the 29th of January, contains the following article on this subject:

"The first column of the auxiliary Russian troops arrived on the 23d of January at Lintz, and was to have continued its march to Passau, where it was expected to arrive on the 30th. The 2d column was expected here on the 3d and 4th of February, the 3d on the 5th, and the 4th on the 7th and 8th."

Passau is situated at the entrance of the circle of Bavaria. The march of the Russians in this direction appears to have been the cause of the note delivered at Rastadt on the 30th of January, by the French ministers to the count de Lehrbach.

According to a letter from Semlin, dated the 15th of last month, Paswan Oglou was on the point of opening the campaign against the Turks.

Among the other extraordinary things which have occurred for some years past, it is certainly not the least, that a rebel, supported only by France, and who is destined by the directory to be the principal instrument of the revolution which it meditates in Poland, should maintain himself precisely in the angle of contact between the three powerful empires of Russia, Austria and Turkey; while 20,000 regular troops sent by two first to the assistance of the Porte, would have been sufficient not only to reduce him to obedience, but to annihilate him.

The following is the letter which the King of Naples addressed to his subjects, some days after his return to Naples:

"No sooner had I seen that the enemy were directing their force to attack my States, than I came in the midst of you, dear, faithful, and beloved subjects, in order to provide energetically for your defence and to employ the most efficacious means to preserve to you religion, honor, prosperity, and life. I went myself to meet the danger in order to ward off from you that loss, which the enemies of religion and of thrones had for a long time determined upon. The common safety depends upon you, my dearest subjects. The enemy are small in number. If you wish it you will be saved. Let also those who have courage, who love God, our sacred religion, and what they possess, take up arms and defend them. Recollect that the provincial militia, not numerous, but brave, levied in haste, and taken from the plough, maintained upon the head of my august father the crown of these kingdoms, which a skilful and experienced enemy endeavoured to wrest from him. The Neapolitan never was a coward; and now that it is the cause of God, your king, and yourselves, will you now suffer yourselves to be conquered? No my dearest friends and brethren! Do not be deceived; if you do not hasten to defend yourselves, you will lose every thing, religion, life and property; and you will see your wives, your daughters, and your sisters dishonored! Rise then my faithful subjects; arm, defend yourselves; march bravely against the enemy, prevent them from entering then kingdom, or make them find in it their death and graves. March: call to your aid our great protector St. Januarius; have confidence in God, who always protects his cauſe, for which each of you ought to fight, unleſs he means to deny his faith, &c.

The fortreſs of Ehrenbrietſtein, of which the French have taken poſſeſſion, is one of thoſe which nature ſeems to have peculiarly formed for ſelf-defence. It is ſituated on a rock nearly circula , very high, and the foot of which is waſhed by the Rhine. The only point on which it can be regularly attacked, is along the bank of the river on the ſide of Neuwied—but beſides that this approach is very narrow, the works of art, the levelling of the ground in 1794, have rendered this point of attack more difficult and dangerous than it was before. The relative poſition of this place adds much to the importance of its ſtrength, becauſe it commands at once the city of Coblentz, the roads on the two ſides of the Rhine, the navigation of that river, and that of the Moſelle which empties itſelf oppoſite the batteries of the fortreſs. Theſe local advantages have rendered the poſſeſſion of this place moſt important during all the wars between the empire and France, and particularly before Mayence and the fort of Caſſel had acquired the extent and ſtrength which the French, the Pruſſians, and the Auſtrians have ſucceſſively given to them ſince the commencement of the preſent war.

Ever ſince two days after the French army under the orders of gen. Hoche opened the campaign in 1797, by paſſing the Rhine at Neuwied (April 18th) Ehrenbreitſtein has been inveſted by it in a manner more or leſs cloſe.

It was expected that this blockade would ceaſe after the treaties of Leoben and Campo Formio, and more particularly after the reiterated repreſentations on this ſubject made at Raſtadt, and the acceptance of the ultimatum of the French deputes by thoſe of the empire; but the directory, who wiſhed to acquire the only important point of which they were not maſters from Manheim to the Weſel, and to have certain poſſeſſion of all the pledges of war in caſe they choſe to recommence it, were deaf to the demands of the deputies of the empire, as they have ever been, and always will be, to thoſe of juſtice and good faith.

The perſeverance with which the garriſon of this place, compoſed of troops of the empire, have ſupported the fatigue of this long blockade, and the privation of every kind which they have ſuffered during this rigorous winter, deſerves the higheſt praiſe, and forms an accuſation againſt thoſe who have left them no reſource but patience.

Colonel Faber who commanded it, has proved himſelf worthy of the truſt conſided to him, and is one of the ſmall number of officers of the empire, who are in fact deſirous and capable of ſupporting the honour of Germany. This officer, who in his youth had ſerved in France, afterwards entered the ſervice of his Sovereign the elector of Treves, and in 1793 commanded a corps of Chaſſeurs, who ſerved with diſtinction in the advanced poſts of the army of the king of Pruſſia, who rewarded col. Faber by giving him the order of merit. We have every reaſon to believe that this officer, born at Thal-Ehrenbrietſtein, did every thing for the defence of this fortreſs which the double intereſts of duty and patriotiſm could dictate.

One Hundred Dollars Reward.

RAN away from the ſubſcriber this day, at noon, two mulatto houſe Servants, viz Ned, but commonly called Edward among his companions, well known as the ſubſcriber's coachman and waiting man for ſeveral years in this city and in New-York—he is a tall ſtrait made mulatto with a large buſhy head of hair, about 32 years of age, has a low forehead, with ſmall eyes, a ſullen dark look and is much inclined to be abrupt and inſolent, one of his legs ſomething ſmaller than the other from a fracture in his youth; he generally wears a brown cloth coatee with red cuffs and cape and red edging, or ſuſtian with red cuffs and cape; had on when he went away an old ſoreſt cloth ſurtout, mix'd brown and yellow, and has a box coat of light colored drab, with red and white livery lace, but as I do not know what other clothes he had on, may change his dreſs.

Nelly, calling herſelf Wife to the before named Ned, ſhe is much above the middle ſtature, ſtrait made, with ſalling ſhoulders, has a remarkable ferocious countenance and is very paſſionate, quarrelſome, and noiſy, ſhe is rather a fair mulatto—has loſt one or two of her front teeth, which ſhe ſupplies with wax, and has a large ſcar between her ſhoulders occaſioned by a bliſter; ſhe is about forty five years of age, has a very maſculine air in her walk, ſhe carried away with her ſeveral gowns of different colored cotton; the above reward will be given for apprehending and ſecuring them in any jail in the United States and giving notice to the ſubſcriber; or fifty dollars for ſecuring either of them.——All perſons are cautioned againſt harboring, entertaining, or concealing the above ſervants of either of them; and all maſters of veſſels and others are warned againſt carrying them from the United States,

NEW-BEDFORD, April 2.

Arrived, ſhip Juno, W. Clark, from a South Sea whale voyage of 27 months, has obtained 1200 bbls. ſper. and 50 whale oil. Nov. 29, on the coaſt of Brazil, capt. Clark had one of his boats ſtove by a whale, and the mate, Benjamin Gardner, being thrown into the air, fell on an oar, and had one of his thighs broken; it was ſet, and he is in a fair way of recovery.—After having attempted to put into St. Salvador for refreſhments, capt. Clark was under the neceſſity of bearing away for Rio Janeiro, where he arrived 24th Jan. and was treated very politely by the Portugueſe; ſailed again 4th Feb. A fleet of 50 ſail, had juſt arrived from Liſbon; another, of 14 ſail, were about ſailing for India; 6 Portugueſe 44's were repairing, in order to return home. About 20 days before capt. Clark's arrival, the French privateer brig Buonaparte, of 18 guns, had chaſed a very richly laden Portugueſe brig, to juſt without the reach of one of the forts, when it falling calm, ſhe came to anchor, and was cut out by the French without any attempt being made to reſcue her, although beſides the above-mentioned ſhips of war 2 frigates and 2 cutter brigs were laying in the harbor; the brig was ſent to the river La Plata. An Engliſh gentleman from that river informed captain Clark, that 2 American ſhips bound on a ſkinning voyage, had been ſent in there by the ſame privateer, which in co. with another privateer, continued cruiſing from the lat. of 30 to 11, S. and had taken a vaſt number of Portugueſe veſſels, about 70 of which were lying in the river La Plata, when capt. Clark's information left there. On the 20 Nov. ſpoke ſhip Greenwich, capt. Pool, from London, bound to Caleſornia, whaling. On 7th inſt. ſpoke a ſch. from Hiſpaniola bound to New-York.

NEW-LONDON, April 10.

So long and ſevere a winter as the one hardly now paſt, has not been known in the memory of the oldeſt man living. Its injurious effects have been felt in a particular manner by the inhabitants of ſome of our neighboring towns. Pinched by the ſeverity of fodder and the uncommon coldneſs of the weather, the cattle have died in abundance. Some farmers loſt twenty head in a very ſhort time. In Lyme it is ſuppoſed one fourth of the ſtock periſhed. Stonington has ſuffered in an equal degree, and Montville and Colcheſter conſiderably, with the proſpect of a ſtill further loſs.

NEW-YORK, April 22

A fire broke out yeſterday noon in Greenwich ſtreet, which baffled the vigorous exertions of our citizens to get under, until it had conſumed nearly the whole of a large block of elegant buildings, amongſt which was the houſe lately occupied by the family of the late Sir John Temple. The wind was weſterly, and blew freſh, which aſſiſted the deſtroying element. The houſes on the other ſide the ſtreet are of wood, and apprehenſions were entertained that the fire would reach them, and extend to a great part of the city: the wiſe meaſure of keeping theſe houſes continually wet, prevented the extenſion of the calamity. The ſteeple of St. Paul's church (although at a very conſiderable diſtance) caught fire from the falling of the ſparks, but was happily extinguiſhed before any material damage was done. The exertions of two perſons, who riſqued their lives for its preſervation deſerve great credit. The fire in Greenwich ſtreet raged with reſiſtleſs fury for nearly three hours, and conſumed about 20 dwellings, ſeveral of them of conſiderable value. Its origin is variouſly related; ſome attributing it to a blackſmith's, others to a carpenter's ſhop, a ſtable, &c. We have not been able to come at the truth.

During the general alarm which this dreadful calamity occaſioned, ſeveral perſons (whoſe feelings were callous as adamant, and more relentleſs than the flames) were detected in the act of ſtealing thoſe moveables which the induſtry and vigilance of our citizens had preſerved for the unfortunate ſufferers. They were ſeverely handled by the populace, and afterwards committed to priſon.

Two men were much hurt by a fall from a ladder, whilſt aſſiſting to extinguiſh the fire.

Two of the houſes conſumed were the property of I. Rodgers, Eſq. of this city.

On the authority of the evening paper, we, on Friday laſt, announced the Death of Col. Wm. DUER, who is ſtill living.

THE AMBUSCADE FRIGATE.

Copy of a letter from a gentlemen on board the Phaeton, dated January 12.

"You have of courſe heard the fate of our conſort, the Ambuſcade. After carrying in a prize, ſhe had come out to join us again, when ſhe fell in with the La Bayonnaiſe, of 36 guns and 300 troops, bound to the Weſt-Indies. The Ambuſcade had been cruizing to fall in with her, and had chaſed and come up with her; the action was much in favor of the Ambuſcade, till an opportunity preſented for the enemy boarding, which was their laſt reſource. They made a deſperate attempt with the ſoldiers and were repulſed. Unfortunately all the officers on board the Ambuſcade were either killed or wounded by muſquetry, except the third lieutenant; the ſecond lieutenant and 5 men were away in a prize; 32 men ſick, and 25 ſhort of her complement, which ought to have been 225. At this time the Ambuſcade's foremaſt fell on board the Frenchman, and they walked on board almoſt without reſiſtance, as there was not an officer left to oppoſe them. We were cruizing in the very place that day, and had chaſed a veſſel about 15 leagues."

The Grand Jury of the Circuit Court of the United States, now ſitting in this city, have found Bills againſt three of the Northampton Inſurgents for High Treaſon, of this number, Fries is one. The other preſentments are delayed for evidence.

Lucian, in his Dialogues, has poured forth his richeſt flood of ridicule upon certain wretches who were wont to inſinnate themſelves into the graces of "ancient gentlemen," in their Grand Climacterick, and by miniſtering to their vices, to intercept the inheritance of their eſtates. Degrading and deteſtable as theſe wretches were, they are yet ſurpaſſed in our enlightened day, by a claſs of miſcreants, who by ſimilar means aim at more pernicious and abominable ends. A fellow who is baſe enough to adhere to an aſpiring old demagogue, and to lend his aid in thruſting him into power, from the ſole motive of promiſed patronage in return, is a far more deſpicable wretch than any of the fortune-hunting tribe of Lucian.

It is ſaid, that Henery Penn Wharton, who was, ſome time ſince, advertiſed in this paper, by Warner Miffin and others, has lately married a woman at Egg-harbour, in the county of Glouceſter New-Jerſey; and that the now reſides there.

[This is one of the moſt pleaſant ſcoundrels that ever my obſervation met withal. He has not, indeed, that we know of, robbed a Bank or a Church, nor picked a pocket, nor pilfered the certificates of a dying friend, nor fraudulently conveyed away his eſtate from his creditors, as other democrats, whoſe names I could mention, have done; nor has he been elected for his notable deeds, to congreſs, or a ſeat on the bench of juſtice: But herein hath he diſplayed an honeſty more exquiſite than that of his compeers, in as much as we never heard from his lips, declamations on the importance of public virtue and of public juſtice, on the heavenly inſpiration of liberty, equality and the impreſcriptible rights of man. In one other regard, alſo, hath he diſplayed a commendable cleverneſs—viz. in quartering upon the enemy; though for the matter o' that, "inſtinct" was ſufficient to lead him where prey was to be found; and ſhe alſo told him that hiw own tribe were as barren of chattels, as their hearts are of honeſty and truth.]

The trial of the Inſurgents of Northampton and Bucks counties, (confined in the jail of this city) will come on at the circuit court of the United States, now ſitting in Philadelphia. The following bills of indictment have been preſented to the Grand Jury:

Bills sent on Saturday,

Yeſterday afternoon ſeveral troops of the cavalry of this city, arrived here from Reading, and we learn that the remainder will be in town in the courſe of this day.

The ſhip Old Tom, Capt. Wood, from Liſbon, is below, ſuppoſed to have ſailed about the 1ſt of March.

Subſtance of the late European intelligence received by the A. B. C. from Guernſey.

That letters from Conſtantinople of Dec. 15, received at Berlin, via. Belgrade ſtate, that the Pacha of Syria had come to a cloſe action with Buonaparte, which had been bloody, but not deciſive; the French were hemmed in; the Porte expected ſucceſs when the troops from Syria had reached their deſtination.—The Ruſſian troops are in full march to Moravia. An aid de camp from general Mack had arrived at Vienna, diſguiſed as a courier; he was the bearer of diſpatches which he delivered to the Emperor in perſon. General Koehler arrived at Berlin the 14th December. The fortreſs of Ehrenbreitſtein has ſurrendered to the French: The blockade of that fortreſs laſted from April 1797, to January 1799.—Every thing which was apprehended on the ſide of Naples, is unfortunately verified. It appears certain that prince Frederick of Orange is dead of a malignant fever, which he caught in viſiting the military hoſpitals. The unfortunate king of Sardinia has been permitted to ſet out for Tuſcany; the French commiſſioner carried his ſeverity ſo far, as not to allow his majeſty to ſee the pope, but in his preſence. The republic of Lucca, ſupported for ſome time by the influence of the late king of Pruſſia's favorite, Luccheſini has been overthrown. Such is the general torpor of affairs on the continent of Europe, that the deſtruction of a ſtate is now conſidered as an event ſcarcely worth recording. The whole continent of Africa from Morocco to Egypt has at length taken up arms againſt the French at the inſtance of the grand Seignor. The ſtates of Barbary and emperor of Morocco not only fit out corſairs, but have ſent large bodies of troops to attack Buonaparte in Egypt—The 15th January, Paſſawan Oglou has opened the campaign againſt the Turks. The projected Union between Great Britain and Ireland, meets with great oppoſition in ſeveral counties in the latter kingdom, particularly in Cavan and Kildare. James N. Tandy and Blackwell are ſtill in confinement at Hamburgh, notwithſtanding ſeveral accounts to the contrary. Thomas Muir the Scotch advocate, tranſported to Botany Bay for ſedition, but eſcaped from thence, died at Paris on the 3d February.

Several perſons from Weſt Indies concur in the information, that a Dutch Squadron has arrived at Surrinam, with a "Particular Agent" of the Batavian Directory, to ſupercede the old Governor of that Colony, who was ſuſpected of being friendly to the Stadtholder. It is alſo to be permitted to all and every of the commandants of fortified places, or poſts, to call for at ſeaſons when the ſame can be tranſported, or at any time in caſe of urgency ſuch ſupplies of like proviſions in advance, as in the diſcretion of the commandant ſhall be deemed proper. It is to be underſtood that the contractor is to be at the expence and riſk of iſſuing the ſupplies to the troops, and that all loſſes, ſuſtained, by the depredations of an enemy, or by means of the troops of the United States, ſhall be paid for at the price of the article captured or deſtroyed, on the depoſitions of two or more perſons of creditable characters, and the certificate of a commiſſioned officer, aſcertaining the circumſtances of the loſs, and the amount of the articles, for which compenſation ſhall be claimed.

The privilege is to be underſtood to be reſerved to the United States of requiring, that none of the ſupplies which may be furniſhed under any of the propoſed contracts ſhall be iſſued, until the ſupplies which have or may be furniſhed under contracts now in force have been conſumed, and that a ſupply in advance may be always required at any of the fixed poſts on the Sea-board or Indian frontiers not exceeding three months.
